

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

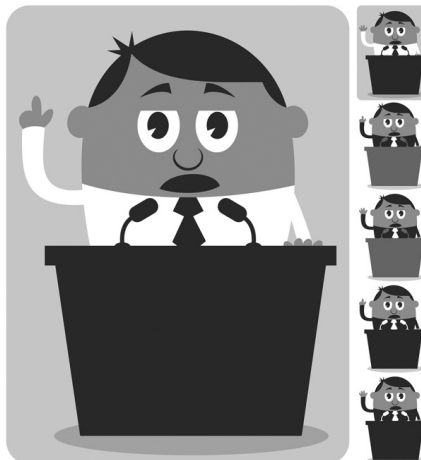

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

We all have to contribute to society!

Learning Outcome

Express duty, advice, willingness, or intention to do something in spoken or written texts and in work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What are some different ways that you can contribute to your community?
- Who do you think should contribute to the community and how should they contribute?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about social issues, beliefs, opinions and moral or personal dilemmas.
- I can ask for confirmation on advice.
- I can express willingness or intention to do something in the present or in the past.

Let's Explore!

Civic responsibility is different from civic duty.

* A "duty" is something that you must do, while a "responsibility" is something you should do.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Civic Responsibility

You often hear people talking about their civic responsibility. It sounds important! What does it mean? Very simply, "civic responsibility" means responsibility of a citizen. I would like to be a responsible citizen. Should I give more money to some group? Shall I donate money or time somewhere? How should I find the best way to be civically responsible? I did some research to find out and I will share what I learned with you.

For democracy and philanthropy to be successful, there must be civic responsibility. Citizens who engage actively in civic responsibility are people who both ensure democratic values and uphold them. It must be noted that civic responsibility and civic duty are quite different. The term civic duty refers to those actions which citizens are legally obliged to do. For example, civic duties in the U.S. include the duty to register for the draft, serve, when asked, on a jury, and of course, to pay taxes. Whereas, volunteering is the most usual way to show your civic responsibility. There are many ways to help the community by volunteering time and I will make a point of volunteering as much as I can. Most people I know would volunteer time around the holidays. What are some other ways to be responsible? Voting is not mandatory in the U.S. Should I always cast my vote? Yes!

Voting is a way to be a responsible citizen. Should I obey all the laws? Yes; not just to avoid punishment, but because obeying laws and behaving in an ethical manner is a civic responsibility. Should I make charitable donations when and if I am able? Yes! Those people who are in a position to give financial support to others should always do so. I remember my parents would make donations to several charities every year and it was a good lesson for me, as a child. I learned that there are people that have much less than we did, and that it was important for us to help other people. I will continue what my parents started and try to contribute as much as I can for the good of the whole community.

Let's Practice!

Tell me what I ought to do.

Instructions: Cross out all the incorrect words in the sentences.

1. Should I to give money to some group?
2. Shall I to donate money or time somewhere?
3. How should I find found the best way to be civically responsible?
4. Should I has cast my vote?
5. Should I be obey all the laws?
6. Should I can make charitable donations when and if I am able?

Let's Practice!

Will you get involved?

Instructions: Complete the sentences with the options from the Word Bank.

Word Bank

I know would volunteer / will share what / will make a point of /
would make donations to / will continue what my parents started

1. I _____ I learned with you.
2. I _____ volunteering as much as I can.
3. Most people _____ their time.
4. My parents _____ several charities every year and it was a good lesson for me, as a child.
5. I _____ and try to contribute as much as I can for the good of the whole community.

Extension Activity

Watch the YouTube video Unpacking "Civic Engagement".

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- On YouTube, watch the video Unpacking "Civic Engagement".
- Take notes while you are watching.
- Look up any new vocabulary in a dictionary.
- Write a paragraph summarizing what you heard.
- Present the information you learned to your class or a group.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I watch a video on YouTube and take notes.

☐ ☐

I look up the meanings of new vocabulary.

☐ ☐

I write a paragraph summarizing the video.

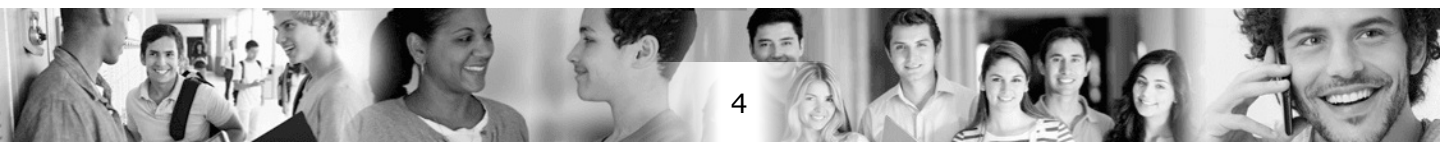

☐ ☐

I present the information to a group.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- civic (adjective): of a town or city or the people who live in it e.g. You often hear people talking about their civic responsibility.
- democracy (noun): the belief in freedom and equality between people, where power is held by elected representatives or by the people themselves
e.g. The importance of civic responsibility is paramount to the success of democracy and philanthropy.
- philanthropy (noun): the giving of large sums of money to organizations that help people e.g. All citizens should engage in philanthropy if they are able.
- the draft (noun): compulsory recruitment for military service e.g. Examples of civic duty in the U.S. are paying taxes, registering for the draft, attending school and serving on juries.
- jury (noun): a group of people chosen to decide if a person is guilty or not guilty in court e.g. The jury delivered a guilty verdict.
- citizen (noun): a person who is a member of a particular country or city and who has the rights of that country
e.g. Very simply, "civic responsibility" means responsibility of a citizen.
- to vote (verb): to express your choice or opinion, especially by officially writing a mark on a paper e.g. Voting is a way to be a responsible citizen.
- mandatory (adjective): required by law
e.g. Voting is not mandatory in the U.S.

Learning Points

Should and Shall to Request Confirmation

You use the modals should and shall in questions that need confirmation. In these types of sentences, should and shall have very similar meanings.

For example:

Who shall I contact on your behalf?

When should I check in?

You can use should or shall in offers or requests.

For example:

Should I call the concierge for you?*

Shall we dance?*

Sometimes should and shall can have very different meanings. In these cases, context is especially important.

Compare these examples:

I shall contact him next week. (Shall means intention.)

I should contact him next week, but I'm nervous. (Should means ought to.)

Examples:

- Should I give money to some group?
- Shall I donate money or time somewhere?
- Should I obey all the laws?
- Should I always cast my vote?
- How should I find the best way to be civically responsible?

Learning Points

Will and Would for Willingness and Intention

You usually use will and won't to talk about the future. However, you can use them to express willingness (or unwillingness).

Talking about the present: will, won't

You can use will to talk about someone's willingness in the present moment to do something.

For example:

Sarah is the best - she will always help a friend in need.

You can use won't to talk about someone's unwillingness in the present moment to do something.

For example:

My brother won't text me back - he's angry with me.

You can use would or wouldn't to express willingness about the past as well.

When talking about the past, you can use would to express that someone was usually willing to do things.

For example:

Sarah was a kind person - she would always help a friend in need.

You use would to talk about usual situations in the past - not one time situations. However, you can use wouldn't to talk about unwillingness in the past for all kinds of situations.

For example:

My brother wouldn't vacuum the house, but he would wash the car.

My sister wouldn't stop talking so I didn't make my class on time.

Examples:

- I will share what I learned with you.
- I will make a point of volunteering as much as I can.
- Most people I know would volunteer time around the holidays.
- I remember my parents would make donations to several charities every year.
- I will continue what my parents started and try to contribute as much as I can for the good of the whole community.

